"THERE is but one temple in the world and that is the body of man. Nothing on earth isholler than that high form. We touch Heaven when we lay our hands on a human body." says Novalis, the German philosopher, but the hangman and the flogger, who represent the State, do their utmost to dispel all ideas of the sacredness of human life.

VERY interesting and amusing was the football match played last evening on the Parade Ground by the "Duffers" and "Dummies" of the Regiment. The teams were dressed in insitation of Chinese, Japanese, Irishmen, Highlanden, niggers, "mounted" clowns-and a lidy. For about an hour these representatives of all nations cavorted about, ntterly regardless of the rules of the game, but to the infinite diversion of fully a thousand spectators. The "lidy's" side seemed

A VETERANS' three lengths swimming handican for a silver cup presented by a member, attracted a large attendance at the Recreation Club bathhouse last evening. There were about a dozen entries, but only half the number competed; The length of the course was 135 yards, the limit man, Mr. F. W. Watts, receiving 35 seconds start, Mr. D. J. Patrick being scratch. For one length the pace was decidedly fast, but at the end of the second length Mr. H. C. Manning (10 secs.) forged ahead in good style, which disheartened the remainder that they did not pass the post. The winner's time was 22 minutes -about a yard a second.

THE two soldiers of the gret Regiment who were charged with robbing a drunken sailor on the Praya on Saturday night were brought up again on remand in the Police Court to-day. and sentenced to six months' imprisonment The two police constables who spotted the lay" were highly commended is said that two days ago a similar case occurred at Kowloon, two soldiers hitching on to Jack Ashore," getting innumerable drinks of him, and also so many into him that he fells prey to their martial instinct of pocket-picking They were, we believe, subsequently dealt with by the military authorities, who would give them their deserts.

TINCTURE of ginger is the latest fashionable liquor in high-toned British society. It is used chiefly by ladies, the female sex having grown tired of that dreary muddlement which is produced by sal-volatile and cau-de-cologne. peculiarity of tincture of ginger is that it contains 95 per cent, of alcohol, and is calculated to est holes in a rhinoceros. This sort of thing makes the tectotal movement look unpromising Teetotalism has been toiling at the pump about a century without abelishing one single liquor among all the innumerable drinks that are raging throughout the globe; and mean while the number of new varieties of grog are past counting.

ALBERT Victor, the second Coming K., rode in a military steeplechase recently, and finished seventh. Lots of the other fellahs came fearful croppers, by the way, some of them being graised through their nervous anxiety to leave a clear course for "Collars and Cuffs," who is said to have sat out the affair, on a splendld jumper, without betraying a gleam of interest,

A TRAGEDY recently occurred in the Criminal Court at Vienna that bears a moral which should not be forgotten by local jurors. A student of the University, 21 years of age, had been sentenced to so months' imprisonment for a criminal assault on a girl eight years of age. He protested his innocence, and upon sentence being delivered he cried out "I charge the Court with moral murder." He then stabbed himself with a lancet, after a struggle with his own brother, who tried to hold his hand, and fell with

A CERTAIN Union general, who was more distinguished for gallantry in the field than for the care he lavished in personal cleanliness, com plained to Judge Joe Barnard of the suffering he endured from rheumatism. That learned and humorous judge undertook to prescribe a remedy, You must desire your servant," he said to the general, " to place every morning by your bedside a tub three parts filled with warm water. You will then get into the tub, and having provided yourself with plenty of yellow soap, you must rub your whole body with it, immersing yourself occasionally in the water, and at the end of a quarter of an hour the process concludes by wiping yourself dry with towels, and scrubbing your person with a fleshbrush." "Why," said the general, after a few moments reflection upon what he had just heard, "this seems to me nothing more nor less than washing yourself," "Well," rejoined the judge, "It is open to that

'RIP VAN WINKLE" was reproduced by Willard Opera Company at the Theatre Royal last night to a fair audience, but owing to the indisposition of two of the principals the show was not a brilliant success. Most of the funny business generally introduced by the inimitable Mr. Harry Hall had to be omitted and to the great regret and disappointment of all present so had the famous "Pipe" song, with which Miss Cissie Denver so charmed her audiences on two previous occasions. Miss Alice St. John on the contrary was in splendid voice and sang with excellent effect. Mr. Walshe lacked "go but his voice invariably pulls him through Mr. Fearnley too was in splendid voice and for the first time since his arrival here gave it freedom and the applause which his solo "The good old game of nine pins" won, was both loud and long. The other members of the company were up to their usual form. To-night the "Beggar Student" is to be produced for Mr. W. Walshe's benefit and as this gentleman has considerable claims to the consideration of local theatre-goers we hope to see him have a bumper house-for be deserves it.

THE wrestling match which took place at Hamburg last month between Carl Abs, the famous German athlete, and Tom Cannon, the American, who for several years has posed as the champion wrestler of the world, resulted in a victory for the German. During the first quarter of an hour Cannon was the assailant, but after assumed the offensive. From that moment it became pretty clear with whom the ultimate victory would rest. Some admirable bouts ensued, in which Cannon displayed of the entire gate-mency, TELEGRAPHIC intelligence has been a received here to the effect that the rallway line which will connect the Imuris Mines with the coast, is expected to be completed in a fortnight's time. This, of course, should materially affect the value of the scrip of this Company which by fully fifty per cent. of local residents has hitherto been credited with little more than a mythical existence.

HE was a blameless, shy, and gallant youth, and he went forth to pay a duty call. He was shown into the drawing-room, where the daughter of the house was alone. After a few minutes conversation, without any warning, her nose began to bleed, but, ready for all emergencies, he rushed to the door, obtained the key, and dropped it down her back. At that moment steps were heard outside, some one tried the door, and then began to knock. He then realized that in his hurry he had locked the door, and that the drawing-room was on the first floor and without's balcony! Reader, what wouldst thou have done?

An extraordinary instance of forgetfulness on the part of the police was recently recorded at standing between two Russian ladies, one of his him to the floor. He was taken away to the Vienna. On the feast of Corpus Christi, on May arms round the neck of each; in which position 20th last, a deaf and dumb man was arrested on a charge of vagrancy at the village of Strabia near Troppau, in Austrian Silesia, and was confined in the local lock-up. After having taken him into custody, however, the police appear to have entirely forgotten their pri soner, for not only was he not brought up in the ordinary course before the Magistrate, but was first defendant, and paid his debt of honour like a left without food or water. In fact, no one man; how the defendant then claimed $40 visited the cell in which he was confined from more, and called him a weisher; the second the day of his arrest until more than month had clapsed, when quite by chance some person happened to enter the cel and discovered what had taken place. beat him, and tried to extort more money; and | unfortunate man had evidently died of starvation, how they finally brought him back to Hongkong | and the flesh on his body had been nearly comunder a promise to "do what he could for them." | pletely eaten away by rats. way of raising the wind. This is not a Hebrew' advertisement, nor a fraud of any sort; it is actual fact, recorded in the depositions of the Police Court. Two Chinese boys, one aged eleven years and the other fifteen, wanted pocket money. Says Jimmy (the elder) to Johnny (the younger), "Look here, any old Chinawoman without family will buy you; come and be sold, will take the proceeds; then you skip, come back to your long lost, and we will share the dibs." So they got two others to find a childless woman, wife of the skipper of a junk; she paid them $70, and took the infant away on board, he protesting, as this was not what he meant Then the three shared the wealth and departed. simmy went back to his mother and said that he had taken his brother to Kowloon and left him there; he gave the old woman $2 as the proceeds of his gambling, and all went well But then the father returned from Canton and naked for his child; the whole affair was exposed, and the two miscreants who helped to sell the boy were charged before the Magistrate to-day with fraudulently enticing the child out of the Colony for unlawfu purposes. The elder brother gave evidence saying that the two defendants first came him and suggested that they should "make few dollars out of the younger brother, and he agreed. The prisoners admitted the charge, but pleaded that they only received three out of the twenty by the Ishmaelites for the boy. Wise sentenced them to six months' imprisonment each (being both about 20 years old) and advised, the father to take home the witness (Jimmy) and give him fits, for he was evidently worse even than the two prisoners The affectionale pareplied that he had had the boy tied up all last night, and would attend to him. IN spite of a little delicate shrick from one Cobb. writes a Bulletin correspondent the Victorian branch of the British Medical Association has decided to admit qualified ladies to memberable. It is tolerably obvious that a determination to boycot women-doctors would have very resulted in their forming their own association, but this contingency was not hinted a by the broken-up monopolists who so magna nimously accepted the inevitable last week They used the occasion as another oppotunity to trot out the old professional chestnu that they are engaged in a boly mission, and the meeting smiled a gentle, "kerristian" smile at the speaker who said—"When women showed an earnest desire to contribute their share in the alleviation of suffering humanity it was not their (the men's) function to discourage them." time is going by when these qualified extortioners may expect the most ignorant readers to swallow gammon. That women have alleviating suffering, ever bince Adam was first laid up with indigestion and Eve made him an apple custard is as certain as the fact that the average doctor works to alleviate his own wants, and is no more of a philanthropist than bis twin brother, the lawyer. "Bloody, bawdy villain !"

Once upon a time there was a man in the show biznis." whose motto was "Mak, money -honestly if ye can; but mak' money." H was human.

He followed his motto with remarkable energy and perseverance. He worked far harder than the average man, denying himself and doing to others as he did to himself, only more so. In fact, he denied others so much that just now there is not to be found one tongue to speak a good word for him, except possibly his own. But we anticipate. His method was to zigidly practise the most water-tight economy, to cling like an octopus living on nothing when there is nothing to be had, and absorbing everything when there anything, irrespective of such details as the rest of the world, humanity, and so on. Like the octopus, he never tries much to make friends, and it would be useless if he did ... The mearest approach to that is a cold-blooded insinuating style, followed by a grip, a sucle; a clean-out, and a rejection.

This showman worked various unheard-of villages and statious all over India, all called "Somethingpore," and for a time he only just managed to pay exes by doing character shows with hardly any assistance. But when he made nothing he lived on nothing, and got there just

Then he got across a man who did shooting tricks. He got them linto his show, learnt their business, starved them, quarrelled, and separated, having got the knowledge of their "lay" and the money they had carned for him from the general public Then he started sgaln himself, doing their shooting. A man who can do that is no fool.

At one time he had a marionette show out in: the East. Most things of this sort lose money out here, but he, by hard work and energy, got on very well, and ended up with a pile, having just played the marionette business out, and no further. Again, a man who can do that is no

This venture paid him so well that he lived is an artist. He has been a great traveller, and on his means as a gentleman in Australia for his 30 landscapes and figure sketches lately some time after. They, being fools, signed this; and he, being a -well, smart man-was not content with letting them sell themselves. If he had, if it had rested at that, he would have been simply a business man, as honest as most. But he first wanted them to take $60 a month, calling a pound five dollars; he had done that with others before, but it would not wash just now. Then he told them tales of India's nabobs. China's merchant princes, rubles, diamonds, and so on. He told them all this seriously and carnestly, as having been within his knowledge in times past. It may have been so; things were brighter in India and China a few years ago, and what he said may have happened. But he had no right to calculate on it, to trade on it, to tell them "Really, you know, as manager I ought to have a fixed share of what you get from admirers." That is what he did. "He told them $70 a month would be wealthy living, which was a lie; he told them he had the personal friendship of many rich people who would make valuable presents. which never once happened; he told them in all seriousness most tempting tales of the places he was taking them to, all as actual fact within his own knowledge on previous occasions, all used as arguments to cover his own meanness and make it pass for a good spec-and all

The sequel is now developing. He finds that the Crown Colonies are either hard up or too fastidious, and will not fill his houses during performances por court his girls out of office hours. So there is discontent and blokering az hours of each day, and the manager has quarrelled with each individual in his family. He threatened to heave his "leading lady" into the sea during one of the voyages; he has given his best man notice to quit; his "band" is on the strike; a local band that he engaged one night now waits for him every evening with a view to murder; he is not on speaking terms with any representative of the local press (there are about a dozen of them); he has lost two of his best chorus girls, and more to follow; he has lost $50 in law on the same subject-money not too easily spared; and having quarrelled with every white man near him, has now taken upwith the very Chinamen whom only three days. ago he was reviling.

The glacier must have been over 1180 feet thick. If we are to judge by analogy and use Lyell's researches in Great Britain and Tyndall's in the Alps as our standards, the Amoy glacier was from half-a-mile to one mile thick and in its full career covered the Formosa channel, all of that island excepting a few high peaks and reached far out into the Pacific ocean. The paucity of moraines and the wealth of boulders indicate that the glacial epoch terminated very quickly so far as Amoy is concerned. A glacier dies from one of two causes, either there is an increase of temperature too great for the continued existence of ice or there is a large decrease in the supply of the water which in congealed form goes to make it up. Sometimes the two causes combine and make one. As there are but little soil, few moraines and many boulders on Kulangsu and Amoy, it is probable that both causes united in this instance to produce the present topographic and lithologic condition of the neighbourhood and its surround- Simon Romanovich (A Beging territory.

The rocks mentioned indicate that there has never been any volcano nor volcanic action in the immediate neighborhood of Amoy. A few diorite boulders with lava-filled veins prove that to the north or northwest there is a district which at one time was the scene of tremendous volcanic action. The absence of seams, faults or crevasses is evidence that there have 'never been any serious earthquakes in Amoy since, well, put it 500,000 years B. C., except it may be the dying tremor of some seismic convulsion many miles away. We are also led to the inference that there never will be a volcano or an earthquake near Amoyoso long as the present coast line semains unchanged in its general

Notice how delicately I bring in my scientific attainments at this point. It doesn't harm any one, it pleases the college graduates who read your noble journal, and, above all, it reflects credit upon my studious habits. Above all I wish to call attention to the variegated assortment of adjectives Iam enabled to employ. Pardon the egotism, but I think they are really worthy of Bill Nyc or Miner Griswold, and than these two princes of the pen no man alive can pick out more unwieldy and mysterious polysyllables.

"As for the people, they consist of 1 of 1 per cent. Mandarins, one per cent. well to do citizens and 984 per cent, poor devils of coolies. We Americans do not understand the labor problem of China. We oppose coolies and coolie traffic unwittingly. Let me say a few words on the other side of the house.

In combatting evil, much evil is often done. Many years ago the coolie traffic fell into unscrupu'ous and iniquitous hands at Macao. So many outrages were committed that public sentiment was aroused over the civilized world and the traffic was finally suppressed. So far all was well. But having achieved this victory, the reformers went a step further and tried to put an end to all coolie traffic no matter how or by whom conducted. Luckily for humanity in the Orient, this Quixotic endeavour failed, but in failing has done irreparable damage to commerce and civilization. The situation may be summed up in a few words. Barring Canton and Foochew, China is essen-increasing demand. Great Britain requires them "Real tea and coffee and salaratus ! And in Singapore, Penang, Pahang and North Borneo. And not to speak of settlements of lesser importance And France has employment for hundreds of thouneeds millions to work her magnificent colonies But all the women were crying by that time, of Java, Sumatra, Borneo, and the Celebes. Each tenance and treatment of coolie labor. Each "Yere, Dave, Sue-git right down yere on can point with pride to the success which has left home for their foreign settlements. Each is

> But a false and, sickly sentiment steps in and throws every obstacle possible in the way of emigration. As a result thousands die annually of starvation and hundreds of thousands manage with infinite suffering to keep body and soul together. Were the gates opened there would be a new era of prosperity for the European Colonies in the East, a better condition for China and the Chinese along the entire scaboard and a commercial development and progress for Amoy which would make this quiet city one of the busicst and wealthiest in the

I don't think there is a particle of bias in those lines. They represent what I feel after baving seen and studied the problem as thoroughly as an American can in the great Middle Kingdom. There is a volume more to be said. It will not be said here, as I am preparing it for publi-cation as a subscription book, and hope to sail
